Temple University’s School of Social Work (SSW) seeks applicants for non-tenure track faculty positions. We are searching for talented and innovative educators with solid experience in multiple domains of Social Work. Experience in online teaching is especially desired.

SSW is dedicated to societal transformations to eliminate social, political, and economic injustices for poor and oppressed populations and to advancing the quality of life for all through education, research and scholarship, public service, and advocacy. Our diverse student body of nearly 1,000 students are enrolled in our generalist BSW program and in three distinct concentrations in the MSW program, which include Community and Policy, Clinical Practice, and Management and Planning. SSW has 28 faculty who teach on the Main campus in Philadelphia and the State Capitol in Harrisburg. Our faculty also extends the School’s reach to campuses in Center City Philadelphia, nearby suburban Ambler and across central and Northern Pennsylvania as part of our Commonwealth Cohorts.

Founded in 1884, Temple University is a comprehensive research university based in Philadelphia with campuses in Pennsylvania, Rome and Tokyo. The School of Social Work sits within the College of Public Health, which includes academic units and colleagues working with 4,500 students in a range of related disciplines such as Public Health, Rehabilitation Sciences, Physical Therapy, Kinesiology, Health Services and Policy, Nursing, Communication Sciences and Disorders. Opportunities are available to contribute to interdisciplinary teaching and service.

SSW is searching for up to FOUR non-tenure track 9-month teaching faculty members based both in Philadelphia and Harrisburg for the 2015-2016 academic year who are highly qualified and experienced to support our advanced curriculum in Management and Planning, Community and Policy, and Clinical practice as well as Generalist Practice and Policy. Positions are available on Main campus in Philadelphia with expectation that faculty will also teach on Saturdays in nearby Temple campuses in Center City and Ambler. Positions are also available on the Harrisburg campus with the expectation that in keeping with the educational mission of the SSW, faculty hired may also teach in core areas of the MSW programs located in DuBois, Mansfield, Dallas, Harrisburg, Lancaster and other locations in northern and central Pennsylvania. The SSW is expanding online offerings to meet the needs of part-time students and those living in rural environments. Experience and expertise in online learning is especially desired.

Completed Doctoral level education in Social Work or a closely related field is preferred. However, applicants without doctoral level training might be considered for those who plan to complete doctoral degrees within a year or those who document significant professional social work practice experience at an advanced level of accomplishment. Aspiring applicants should send curriculum vitae, the names, addresses and phone numbers of three references, and a letter of application to the email address swsearch@temple.edu. The letter of application should specify an interest in “NTT teaching” positions and how their application is responsive to the needs expressed in this announcement.

Temple University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution. People of color, women, veterans, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.
