The School of Social Work presents

Emily Bosk
Doctoral Candidate in Social Work and Sociology

Monday, December 1st
1:00 – 2:30 PM

Ritter Annex, Room 324
Open to all Faculty, Staff & Students

"Same Difference: Standardized Decision-Making in Practice."

Ms. Bosk At A Glance.......

Ms. Emily Bosk is a doctoral candidate in both Social Work and Sociology at the University of Michigan. She was a Doris Duke Fellow in the Promotion of Child Well-being from 2012-2014. Her broad research agenda is to investigate and address disparities in social services systems. In her dissertation, Ms. Bosk examines how and under what conditions Child Protective Service workers determine which families suspected of neglect will be offered legal services vs. social service interventions. Ms. Bosk is a social work clinician, and her practice experience informs her research and teaching.

Ms. Bosk is a candidate for a faculty position in the School of Social Work