This is an exciting time for the Department of Nursing and the College of Public Health at Temple University. We are experiencing unprecedented growth in enrollment, graduate programs and research. Over the next four years, the College will expand its footprint with a new building and add 50 faculty members across the 9 public health and health-related professions departments. In 2014, Dean Laura A. Siminoﬀ, an eminent public health social, joined the College and under her leadership, CPH is engaging in a realignment of interdisciplinary research and academic programming within Public Health. We are seeking innovative and experienced non-tenure track faculty to teach across the Department of Nursing curriculum for our BSN and DNP programs.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) Program positions. Qualifications include: Master of Science in Nursing degree required, doctorate in nursing or related field preferred; minimum of 5 years of experience in critical care, adult medical-surgical nursing and/or public/community health nursing; 3 years teaching experience in a nursing education program; and eligible for RN licensure in Pennsylvania. Responsibilities include classroom and clinical teaching, student advising and academic committee service. Positions begin in August 2015. We also have several openings for part-time clinical adjunct faculty with experience in Maternal Child, Pediatrics, Critical Care, Medical Surgical or Community Health Nursing. Positions begin in August 2015.

Family Nurse Practitioner position is available for a full-time, 10 month, non-tenure track nursing faculty position. Required qualifications are DNP degree or enrolled in a DNP program, a minimum of 3 years current practice as a Family Nurse Practitioner, national certification, eligible for Pennsylvania RN license and NP certification, and graduate teaching experience. Responsibilities include classroom and clinical teaching with an experience with women’s health, student advising, and academic committee service. We also have several openings for part-time clinical adjunct NP faculty. Positions begin in August 2015.

Temple University is an urban, research-intensive university located in Philadelphia. Temple is the 6th-largest provider of professional education in the country and includes Schools of Law, Medicine, Pharmacy, Podiatry, and Dentistry in addition to research centers including the NCI-designated Fox Chase Cancer Center. The College of Public Health enrolls 4,500 students across our departments with a faculty of 155. We have 18 faculty in the Department of Nursing. There are 450 students in our undergraduate and graduate nursing programs, which are full accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education.

Temple’s Department of Nursing is well known for its high pass rate on the NCLEX-RN and innovation in community based and public health informed education. The BSN program focuses on primary health care and includes an innovative four-year community home orientation where students are placed with community partners. The Doctor of Nursing Practice program includes a concentration for post-BSN students to provide primary care and a concentration for post-MSN students that gives Advanced Practice Registered Nurses additional training to serve community healthcare needs. DNP students can specialize in Adult or Family Care. The Department of Nursing has tremendous support from its alumni and friends who provide $500,000 in scholarships for nursing students.

Appointment for these non-tenure track faculty positions may be made at the rank of Instructor, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, dependent on qualiﬁcations. Salary and beneﬁts are competitive and will be commensurate with credentials and experience. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until positions are ﬁlled.
