Dear Prospective MSW Student:

In 1969, our country was experiencing many changes, some of which represented our best hopes for justice and peace. In Philadelphia, a group of social work educators brought their own particular hopes to fruition with the founding of Temple University’s School of Social Administration (now Social Work). With its emphasis on public leadership and community collaboration, this new school represented innovation and change in social work education and training.

Today, the School of Social Work, with sites throughout eastern Pennsylvania, provides comprehensive undergraduate, graduate and post-graduate programs. It is an integral part of Temple’s College of Health Professions and Social Work. As such, we share an organizational home with other professions who seek healing and opportunities to bolster human capacities. All elements of the College provide a unique professional focus on a common aim of improving quality of life.

Yet the school remains true to its history. It fulfills its mission of societal transformation to eliminate social, political and economic injustice through teaching, research and service. We believe that being part of such a dynamic environment is the best setting for professional education among adults who are working or seeking to work in the profession.

Much has changed since 1969. Nations and communities face new challenges related to global threats to our environment and security. We continue to advance in civil rights based on ethnicity, disability, and GLBT identity, yet we also have far to go to fulfill universal aspirations for inclusion. We face current challenges relating to immigration, health care reform, HIV/AIDS, and the legacies of high incarceration rates and the intensive criminalization of addiction. Individuals, families and communities need help in healing from various forms of trauma. If you are up for these challenges, then we stand ready to face them with you.

Thank you for your interest in the Temple University School of Social Work. We hope we can join together in pursing new possibilities, and new solutions, in the years to come.

The Master of Social Work Program

The Temple University Master of Social Work (MSW) program consists of 60 credits of course work and field practica. It is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. The MSW program is offered at the Temple Main campus and TUCC (Center City) in Philadelphia; the Temple Ambler campus; the Temple Harrisburg campus and at several sites throughout northeast Pennsylvania. Depending on location, classes are offered in the day, evening, and Saturdays; many classes are on-line. Field practica is available in over 500 human service and social change organizations in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, and New York. Full time (15 credit hours per semester for 2 years) and part time (6-9 credit hours per semester over 3 years) options are available. Exemplary applicants who have earned a BSW may be eligible for the accelerated 34.5 credit Advanced Standing Program.

Curriculum Overview*

The first 30 credits comprise the Foundation Curriculum (except for Advanced Standing students). The courses cover policy, research, practice and human behavior content – essential grounding for social work. Students also complete a two (2) semester (or the equivalent) field practicum in an agency that can introduce them to a broad array of social work practice skills and frameworks.

The last 30 credits serve as the Advanced Curriculum. Students shape this aspect of their program by selecting a concentration (method) and a specialization (area of interest). In addition to these courses, students choose electives and in their final semester take Integrative Seminar. A two (2) semester (or the equivalent) field practicum based on the student’s concentration and specialization completes the advanced plan of study.

Concentrations:
The concentration is comprised of two (2) advanced practice courses and a research course. Students select one (1) of the following:
- Clinical Social Work Practice with Individuals, Families, and Small Groups: prepares students to engage in individual, family and small group interventions including casework and therapy.
- Management & Planning: prepares students for advanced roles in human service organizations with emphasis on program development, financial management and leadership.
- Practice with Communities and Policy Arenas: prepares students to engage in collective action in communities and government venues through constituent education, mobilization and advocacy.

Specializations:
The specialization is comprised of two (2) advanced courses, one (1) in social welfare policy and the other in human behavior and social environment. Students select one of the following:
- Children, Youth, & Families: prepares students to work with children, youth, and families in the child welfare system, schools, and various therapeutic and social support programs.
- Health & Mental Health: prepares students for practice in health/mental health settings including psychiatric hospitals, hospice, or drug and alcohol treatment centers.
- Individualized Option: If the student has a particular area of interest not addressed by the standard specializations, she/he may design their own specialization. The student works with her/his academic advisor to construct a proposal that includes graduate level policy and human behavior courses.

Electives: While the choice of electives varies from semester to semester, recent offerings have included: Financial Management (must be taken by Management & Planning concentrators), Assessment and the DSM, HIV/AIDS, Social Transformation, Homelessness, Clinical Supervision, and Wealth & Poverty. Students, with permission of their advisor, may take graduate courses in other departments.

*This is intended to be a brief overview. Note that the full curriculum with all options is not offered at every site. Applicants should investigate the curriculum, in its entirety, and what specific concentrations and specializations are available at a given location by going to our website: http://chpsw.temple.edu/ssa/home.
MSW Admission Requirements

Admission to the Temple MSW Program is highly competitive. Qualities of a successful applicant for admission include strong undergraduate academic performance, experience (work or volunteer) in human service or social change organizations, a capacity for developing self-understanding, concern for marginalized or vulnerable populations, respect for personal and cultural differences, commitment to social work goals, a desire to function in the role of change agent, and a career intent that is consonant with the School’s mission and curricular offerings.

Unless otherwise stated on the school’s website, applications are accepted on a rolling admission basis:
- Summer (Advanced Standing Only) applications accepted until March 15
- Fall (Part-time or Full-Time) applications are accepted until March 15
- Spring (Part-time Regular standing only) applications are accepted up until November 1

The MSW program is a comprehensive and rigorous educational endeavor with heavy time demands. It is more than just attending courses. There is considerable study time. Students conduct original research, attend and present at conferences, lobby in Harrisburg, and participate in agency activities. Therefore, the faculty strongly recommends that students who must work full-time follow the part-time format of the curriculum. Investigate thoroughly and plan carefully!

Additional Information

Field Practica: One of the most exciting, and important components of the MSW program are the two (2) year-long field practica or internships in human service or social change agencies. This requirement is also among the more challenging and requires careful planning. Internships cannot be accomplished solely on the weekend or evenings, as the appropriate learning opportunities and supervision are not available. Students need to plan on having time during weekday, business hours for at least some of their practica. Students employed in social service organizations may be able to use their place of employment as a practicum site, provided that the site meets the School’s field placement criteria. For field practicum requirements: http://chpsw.temple.edu/ssa/field-placement

Transfer Applicants
Students seeking to transfer to the School of Social Work from another CSWE accredited social work program are required to meet the criteria for admission and follow the application procedures. Additionally, one of the academic/professional references must be from the current academic/faculty advisor in the program from which the applicant is transferring and must address the academic standing in that program. If not currently enrolled, the reference must be from the former academic/faculty advisor. A transcript from your current program and syllabi for any social work classes you wish to transfer will be required for review.

Foreign Students
If you are an international student interested in applying for the MSW program and have not attended a college or University in the United States, please contact the Office of International Services. Also, if your academic record (transcript) is not translated to U.S. equivalency, you are required to contact a private foreign educational credential evaluation service to translate your credentials for consideration. You can consult WORLD EDUCATION SERVICES (WES) or contact any other organization that is a member of the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services NACES.

Language Requirements
If English is a 2nd language, Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) scores are required. Minimum TOEFL score needed to be accepted: 550 paper-based, 213 computer-based, or 79 internet-based. Contact TOEFL to arrange for testing. Please note that all courses and field practica will be in English.

Financing Your Education
Students are responsible for the cost of their education, including submitting all necessary paperwork for financial aid consideration. The School of Social Work is not involved in financial aid decisions. Please consult with the University’s Office of Student Financial Services for assistance: http://www.temple.edu/sfs/

The School of Social Work awards some aid each year to assist meritorious applicants in meeting the cost of their educational program. Because this is a limited pool of funds, it is advisable to apply to the MSW program early. Awards are made on the basis of academic merit and the overall promise shown by an applicant for contributing to the School of Social Work and to the profession. Additional considerations include interest in particular areas of practice for which special funding is available and the School’s commitment to maintaining diversity in the student body. Notification of awards is generally made at the time of admissions.

Computer Literacy and Access
Faculty and staff assume that all MSW students will have access to a computer (either one of their own or through a computer lab). Most, if not all, information is now communicated via email and various web-based platforms. Students also are expected to have basic competency in word processing (i.e. Microsoft Word).
